

Lee Bouldin

Director of Spiritual Formation, Instructor

- B.F.A., University of Houston (Graphic Communications)
- M.A., Dallas Theological Seminary (Biblical & Theological Studies)

Bio

Lee Bouldin serves as Director of Spiritual Formation for the College of Biblical Studies' Houston campus. Along with teaching the Spiritual Formation courses, he administers the spiritual formation programs and helps create a spiritual environment that reflects the CBS mission and contributes to personal and organizational transformation. Lee has been on staff with CBS since 2000, having previously served as Manager of Enrollment Marketing, Director of Communications and, initially, Director of Development. Attending CBS classes strengthened Lee's passion for God's Word and discipleship. Having enjoyed the privilege of being discipled by a CBS professor, he was inspired to enroll at Dallas Theological Seminary to hone his skills and better prepare himself for service to the body of Christ (M.A., Biblical and Theological Studies, 2017).

Since 2005, Lee has led a weekly Bible study at Covenant House Texas, a homeless shelter for at-risk young adults. This experience has provided opportunities to disciple and mentor young men toward a biblical worldview and a greater capacity for leading independent lives as socially and economically responsible citizens of their community. Lee is a native of Houston, Texas, and has been a member of BridgePoint Bible Church since 2008, where his service to the body includes Bible teacher and Care Leader. He studied graphic design at the University of Houston (B.F.A., 1989), where he qualified for the Yale University summer design program in Brissago, Switzerland. Lee worked for a corporate branding and design firm for 12 years before being called to CBS. Along with discipleship, he enjoys studying history, improving upon administrative processes, hiking and spending time in the Texas hill country.
